

Mr. Daniel Jerome Henderson

March 26, 1951 - May 30, 2025

Daniel Jerome Henderson, affectionately known as “Pluck” was born on March 26, 1951 to Mary Henderson and the late Alexander Henderson, Sr. He was preceded in death by his father, one brother, Tyrone Henderson, and his son, DeVaughn Henderson.

At an early age, Daniel accepted Christ as his savior at St. Paul’s Baptist Church in Richmond, VA. He was a product of Richmond Public Schools and graduated from Armstrong High School. After high school, Daniel joined the Marine Corp and served in various capacities for 4 years. Following his time in the service, Daniel returned to Richmond, VA and worked as a painter. He formed a painting business, “Solid Lasting Year-Round Contractors,” with his oldest Brother, Alexander Henderson, Jr., and also painted for W.W. Nash & Sons, Phillip Morris, and Brown N Roots painting.

Daniel was blessed from an early age to be able to do just about anything with his hands. He was a true creative with the ability to draw, paint and make art from various materials. At one time, his artwork and wooden sculptures were on display at several Richmond art studios.

Daniel was a loving father, son and brother who could make anyone laugh. His life will be celebrated by his son, David Henderson (Crystal); his mother, Mary Henderson; his siblings, Sarah Jenkins, Alexander Henderson (Pat), and Linda Jackson; four grandchildren; and a host of nieces, nephews, cousins and other relatives.
